The basketball camp this year is going to be a great opportunity for players to come and improve on their individual skills. The emphasis this year is going to be on improving each player individually so they are better prepared to help their team during the season. We are going to evaluate where each player is at with their fundamentals and give them the tools to improve no matter what level they are at in their basketball careers.

There is going to be four main areas that we focus on each day. First is shooting, making sure hands and feet are in the right position, they are releasing the ball from their shooting pocket and proper follow through, with the main goal of consistency, quickness and confidence. Second will be dribbling, building strong hands, ball control, head up and the ability to dribble into their shot. Third will be passing, using the correct form, strong passes and reading the defense before they pass the ball. And fourth will be defense, proper defensive stance, communication and being in the right position on the floor.

This is going to be a fun, but also a very focused camp. I am looking forward to working with each player that wants to improve their game.
